AoE.ASSiGN€ š diMi€ š æ½Ÿ â è¥ ‚owkçµ…Â . dOmâ ANALYSIS Enthusiasts of the great outdoors will welcome the new additions to the GASES series and GHG2 software packages. Recent changes to the software include an efficient way of handling chemical mass and a new LCA/GHG calculator. The nature of the analysis remains the same. The program checks for appropriate input files and successfully reads all files. It also checks for valid and correct input parameters and settings. If these are not correct, it will display a warning message. Additionally, it will run the program in preparation for GHG analysis, collect the data and report back to the user whether the system can proceed to analysis. How it works The easiest and quickest way of running the program is to set the GASESANALYSIS environment variables to the full path of the software. On Windows machines, this can be done in the "Control Panel -> System" or in the "SYSTEM/Advanced/Environment" window. On UNIX-based systems, the full path is simply the location of the software directory. If the program
